Thomas J. Jefferson House
St. Michaels
Private

Architectural evidence and historical research indicate this Cherry Street frame house was erected in more than one stage. The main house was erected around 1860 and probably for Thomas J. Jefferson, who started leasing this lot as early as 1848. In 1860 Thomas J. Jefferson transferred legal ownership of "all that lot of ground with the house and improvements situated on Cherry Street" to to Mary E. Jefferson, however the property was mortgaged. In 1874 the property was purchased by Marion Caroline White, wife of Dr. Alward White. After Dr. White's death the house and lot were transferred to his daughter Emily Harrison, who in turn sold it to Mary V. George in 1884. A year later, in September 1885, the Easton Ledger ran a short notice on the construction activity at this site. The paper stated that, "Mr. H. K. George added a large back building to his house on Cherry Street." The property passed down through George family heirs until it was sold in 1919.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The Thomas J. Jefferson house stands at 102 Cherry Street in the northern residential district of St. Michaels, Talbot County, Maryland. The two-story, three-bay frame house faces north with the principal gable oriented on an east/west axis.

Built about 1860, the two-story side hall/parlor frame house is supported by a low brick pier foundation, and the house is sheathed with German siding. The steeply pitched roof is covered with asphalt shingles. Attached to the back of the house is a two-story service wing, which is dated by a reference in the Easton Ledger to 1885.

The north (main) facade is a three-bay elevation with a side entrance and flanking six-over-six sash windows. The paneled front door is framed by sidelights and a four-pane transom. To the left the windows retain their louvered shutters. Stretching across the full front of the house is a turned post porch with sawn corner brackets. The roof retains its covering of standing seam tin. Lighting the second floor are three six-over-six sash windows also fitted with louvered shutters. The eave above is distinguished by decorative brackets.

The east side of the house is covered on the first floor by a wraparound extension of the turned post porch. Six-over-six sash windows light the first and second floor. The eave is extended slightly, but it is not trimmed with the decorative brackets. An interior end brick stack protrudes through the roof.

The west gable end is a plain weatherboard wall aside from a single six-over-six sash window that pierces the upper gable.

Covering much of the south side of the main block is the two-story service wing, which is distinguished on the east side by a two-story, three-sided pavilion topped by a decorative metal cresting. The bay is lighted by four-over-four sash windows, and the cornice is trimmed with small brackets. The west side of the kitchen is partially sheltered by a two-story chamfered post porch which is trimmed by corner brackets as well. An interior end brick stove chimney rises through the roof.

The interior was not seen.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Thomas J. Jefferson house is a prominent two-story side hall/parlor frame dwelling that distinguishes Cherry Street in the northern section of St. Michaels. The main block, a two-story, three-bay structure is typical of Civil War era buildings as is the two-story rear service wing. Highlighting the east side of the wing is a two-story pavilion that survives with a metal roof cresting.

HISTORY AND SUPPORT

This two-story side hall/parlor frame house was erected evidently in more than one stage. The main house was built around 1860 and probably for Thomas J. Jefferson who started leasing this Cherry Street lot as early as 1848.(61/410) In 1860 Thomas J. Jefferson transferred legal ownership of "all that lot of ground with the house and improvements situated on Cherry Street." Although this reference provides evidence for an improved lot in that year it is not exactly certain if the the house standing is the one the deed refers to. In any case the main block was probably erected during the third quarter of the nineteenth century and within the next twenty-five years the house was enlarged by the subsequent owners, Mr. Harmon K. and Mary V. George. The Easton Ledger announced on September 10, 1885, that, "Mr. H. K. George added a large back building to his house on Cherry Street."
